critical thinking through difficult knowledge Rethinking Europe Gerard Delanty, Chris Rumford, 2005-09-15 Dominant approaches to the transformation of Europe ignore contemporary social theory interpretations of the nature and dynamics of social change Here Delanty and Rumford argue that we need a theory of society in order to understand Europeanization This book advances the case that Europeanization should be theorized in terms of globalization major social transformations that are not exclusively spear headed by the EU the wider context of the transformation of modernity This fascinating book broadens the terms of the debate on Europeanization conventionally limited to the supersession of the nation state by a supra national authority and the changes within member states consequent upon EU membership Demonstrating the relevance of social theory to contemporary issues and with a focus on European transformation rather than simplistic notions of Europe building this truly multidisciplinary volume will appeal to readers from a range of social science disciplines including sociology geography political science and European studies European Union and Environmental Governance Henrik

Turkish Identity Nilay Baycar, 2009 Master s Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject History Europe Other Countries Newer History European Unification grade 1 3 University of Hannover Faculty of History Philosophy and Social Sciences European Studies language English abstract Is Turkey a European country To answer this question we must first understand what is meant by Europeanness Is it a sense of belonging to Jewish Greek Roman antiquity to Christianity to the Renaissance and the Enlightenment which is the way the substantialists define Europeanness or rather a commitment to the universal values liberty democracy respect for human rights fundamental freedoms and the rule of law upon which the European Union was founded The constructivists regard Europeanness as a commitment to European principles defining the term in a syncretic way So far the identity of the European Union has prevalently been defined politically In answering the question of whether Turkey belongs to the common European cultural heritage or not it must first be pointed out that there would not have been a European history without Turkey since Turkey is the successor to the Byzantine and Ottoman empires that have shaped Europe Moreover it is important to note that the origin of Turkey itself lies within the cradle of European civilisation As a contribution to the continuing debate on the place of Turkey within Europe the aim of this master s thesis is to examine in detail the historical background and context of Turkey s cultural identity The paper is structured as follows In Chapter 2 discussion will be presented on how Europe and Europeanness are popularly defined also European identity and its relevance to the European culture will be discussed in the light of the constructivist approach bearing in mind that the European Union is a unity in diversity Having considered the main elements of European culture the problem areas of European identity will be reviewed in detail Subsequ

Unity and Diversity in the New Europe Barrie Axford, Daniela Berghahn, Nick Hewlett, 2000 This is one of the first multi disciplinary collections to examine aspects of both the unity and the enormous diversity which characterise contemporary Europe Covering subjects as varied as the Second World War advertising and Romani culture contributors explore some fascinating areas which often serve to highlight the importance of history memory identity and culture in the construction of Europe In many ways the book is about renewal but contributors approach the New Europe in a way which acknowledges the complexity of different cultures and identify often hidden obstacles along the path towards European unity It recognises the importance of formal political economic and legal frameworks but also goes beyond them

European Union--the Second Founding Ludger Kühnhardt, 2008 The author is presenting a broadly structured study about the first fifty years of European integration its geopolitical context and academic reflection His study is based on the two fold thesis that since a few years the European Union is going through a process of its Second Founding while simultaneously changing its rationale Unity in Diversity Michael Herslund, Ramona Samson, 2005 The overall themes of this book are past and present changes in European cooperation Two such changes were at the top of the agenda in the summer of 2004 the Eastern enlargement and the constitutional treaty A way to interpret these changes is to look at them as manifestations of the two core concepts diversity and unity The combination of the concept of unity with the apparently contrasting notion of diversity the two extremes of a scale seems to amount to a contradiction But that is exactly the nature of European cooperation How to overcome this contradiction and make it fruitful and productive is the challenge faced by the nations of Europe in the 21st Century The different chapters address different aspects of this challenge from the problems faced by new member states of Central Europe via the long and tortuous road towards a common European constitution and popular Euro scepticism to the role of Europe in the world as mirrored by its relations with the United States of America Enlargement and constitutional treaty are the two keywords of the European Union in the 21st century And they incarnate the two notions of diversity and unity They both constitute major changes in the architecture of the European Union The first change enlargement is a major step towards the overall goal of uniting all of Europe of making the map of the Union congruent with that of geographical Europe What began as a mere economic cooperation between six West European countries now almost covers the whole continent from the Atlantic to the Russian border The chapters are the written versions of six of the lectures given at an international summer university under the theme Europe and the European Union a Scenario for the Future held at Copenhagen Business School The seminar was organized as a cooperation between the Centre for the Study of Europe at CBS and the European Studies Program at Malm University under the auspices of the Oeresund University The Challenges of Nation-building in the Twenty-first Century J.
