Learning from Other Countries:

The Cross-National Dimension in Urban Policy Making I. Masser, Mrs Bernadette Williams, R. Williams, 2005-08-11 Looking at the lessons we can learn from international research in urban and regional planning this book explores the challenges in using cross country studies The contributors address how to approach researching planning in other countries and how to then diffuse the planning information Key topics include comparable urban data and how to use it working with international agencies methodological issues in cross country research translating theory into practice Case studies include researching new towns in France and Poland and problems doing empirical work in Eastern Europe Conflict and Colonialism in 21st Century Romantic Historical Fiction Hsu-Ming Teo, Paloma Fresno-Calleja, 2024-06-13 This book explores how postmillennial Anglophone women writers use romantic narrativisations of history to explore revise repurpose and challenge the past in their novels exposing the extent to which past societies were damaging to women by instead imagining alternative histories The novelists discussed employ the generic conventions of romance to narrate their understanding of historical and contemporary injustice and to reflect upon women's achievements and the price they paid for autonomy and a life of public purpose The volume seeks firstly to discuss the work of revision or reparation being performed by romantic historical fiction and secondly to analyse how the past is being repurposed for use in the present It contends that the discourses and genre of romance work to provide a reparative reading of the past but there are limitations and entrenched problems in such readings
